OLD MASTERS

I cannot see what flowers are at my feet.
Nor what soft incense hangs upon the boughs,
But, in unbalanced darkness, guess each sweet
Wherewith the seasonable month endows
The grass, the thicket and the fruit-tree wild;
White Hawthorn, and the pastoral eglantine;
Fast-fading violets covered up in leaves;
And mid-May's eldest child,
The coming musk-rose, full of dewy wine,
The murmurous haunt of flies on summer eves.
Daring I listen; and, for many a moment
I have been half in love with easeful Death,
Called him soft names in many a mused rhyme,
Now more than ever seems it rich to die,
To cease upon the midnight with no pain,
While thou art pouring forth thy soul abroad
In such an ecstasy!
Still wouldst thou sing, and I have ears in vain—
To thy high requiem become a sod.
—John Keats: From "Ode to a Nightingale."

Popular Ohio Couple Were Wed Saturday

On Saturday forenoon, February 10, at the hour of ten o'clock the Rev. Father King, pastor of St. Louis Catholic church of Princeton, read the impressive marriage service which united for life, Miss Ellen Pearl Hannan and William Anderson, Jr., both of Ohio, Illinois.
The couple were attended by Miss Mary Hannan, sister of the bride, and Edward Duffy, of Dixon, a friend of the bride and groom.
The bride was beautifully attired in a Queen blue satin dress with silver lace trim and hat to match. The bridesmaid wore a Brier Rose satin dress trimmed with gold lace and hat to match.
The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hannan. She is a charming young lady who is well versed in the art of home making and will make a splendid life companion. The groom is a son of Wm. Anderson, Sr., and is a successful young business man, holding the highest respect of all. Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party motored to LaSalle where they were served a four course dinner.

stand still—and they obeyed."

Mrs. Palmer, addressed the group, welcoming the ladies to her home and wishing them a most joyous afternoon.

Mrs. Rowe spoke on "The Older Members of the Class," such that had been members and now live in the various parts of the United States. The influence of these people is known far and wide.

A pleasing and entertaining part of the afternoon was the specially engaged or improvised orchestra. The Aggravation, broadcasted from station BOSH, lead by the great Russian director of symphony, Mrs. Margarita Chnoski. Mrs. A. N. Richardson acted as the cheer leader. Her antics were the very latest athletic form of an over-trained acrobat. The Honorable General George and Martha Washington were represented by Mrs. Helmiel and Mrs. Wallace, and farmed "Silver Threads Among the Gold" with tears and pathos. Misses Calle Morgan and Estella Anderson carried off the honors of the day with their representation of the Neighborhood Gossip Old Maid (Madei paying first visit to a young bride, when coming events cast their shadows before them. The laughter was loud and long. Others taking part making rich the program were Mrs. Schilberg and Mrs. Randall. The entire afternoon was one of enjoyment.

Annual Guest Night Of Ideal Club

One of the happiest times in the history of the Ideal Club was experienced Wednesday evening at the home of its president, Mrs. J. H. Beam of 623 Third St. The occasion being the club's annual guest night.

The rooms were tastefully decorated in the national colors, and the tables in their appointments reflected the same patriotic color scheme. Flowers which also graced the tables were later sent to Mrs. Robert Fulton who is a guest of the club.

After a bounteous three-course dinner served by the efficient committee, chairs were arranged theater fashion and those present were entertained with a comedy act, "Why Lie About It?", given by four of the club's members, Mesdames Plison, Quick, Lewis and Fordham. This was heartily appreciated and the audience was thoroughly convinced that these actors possess real talent. Several of the "boys" tried to create a rough house but were unsuccessful in their efforts, for they were immediately frowned down by the better element, and order was maintained.

The rest of the evening was spent in various contests, and prizes were awarded the winners.

Joy was unconfined and at a late hour, the guests departed for their homes pronouncing the hostesses, Mrs. Beam, Mrs. L. W. Miller and Mrs. Harry Quick royal entertainers.

Palmyra Mutual Aid Society Meeting

The Palmyra Mutual Aid Society held an all day meeting Wednesday in the Sugar Grove church with twenty members and four visitors present. All enjoyed very much the delicious picnic dinner. The ladies were occupied in sewing carpet bags.

The business meeting in the afternoon was opened with the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, followed by the treasurer's report and roll call, and their minor business. It was decided to hold a food sale March 12th. At meeting roll call will be an exchange of recipes.

It was one of the most successful meetings.

Wallace Carlson and Richard McNicol. George and Martha Washington were represented by Rev. and Mrs. Albert W. Carlson; Thomas Jefferson and wife, by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lancaster; John Adams and wife, by Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hey; William E. Daws, by C. C. Hintz; Betsy Ross by Mrs. C. C. Hintz; Gen. Lafayette and wife, by B. Kletzman and wife; Patrick Henry and wife, by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Potter; General Warren by A. N. Richardson; Mollie Stark, by Mrs. A. N. Richardson; Mrs. W. J. Hintz was Priscilla; Alexander Hamilton by L. R. Clingman; Dolly Madison, by Mrs. L. R. Clingman; and Paul Revere by Niles Palmer. Each of the above responded to their name and recited the history of each. Perhaps the outstanding event was the dramatic reciting of Patrick Henry's great speech, by himself, and the actual ride of Paul Revere, the light in the old church tower, and the riding of the wooden horse, in the frenzied ride to Concord. Paul Revere was assisted in the reading by Mrs. W. J. Hintz, in the lighting effects, by Mrs. Niles Palmer, and the clatter of the hoofs by E. A. Mellott. How the house cheered when Paul whizzed through the towns enroute! Much credit is due the president of the club, and H. M. Hey who was introduced and acted as toastmaster for the occasion.

Supply Three Pint Market Farm Duty

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The American farmer was characterized as "the man who is giving the Three Pint Market and still keeping the farm in an address by Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson of Dayton, Ohio, before the Illinois Farmers Institute here last night.

Mrs. Patterson, chairman of the division of family finance of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said in part:

"We are told that the human stomach contain more than three pints of food at a time. The farmer's job is to supply that 'Three Pint Market' with wholesome food from his acres, in competition with other foods which come of course, indirectly from the soil but which enrich the manufacturer who brought them to their synthetic state, instead of the farmer."

"The farmer has always been regarded as the source of the national food supply. But his importance, as this food source, is growing every year, as his problems increase. The nation is realizing that the farmer's problems are not his alone—they're the problems of everyone who eats."

"One of these problems, which the farmer must not overlook, is that happiness in his home is the biggest thing of life. A survey recently made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs showed that $3,600,000 farm families present an entirely different picture from a like number of city families."

"On the farm, the farmer's family, ordinances have compelled lights, gas, sewers, and other conveniences have been the voice of the man, they are the voice of the woman."

are so greatly in the minority that the result is astonishing. The farm money has gone to improve the man's means of work.

"To make happy farm homes, women need to analyze their homes, their own selves, their resources for making happiness. That is what women are doing now. And it is the husband's problem as well. The home is a happy place today, in some respects than it was in the past. Yet the buying of the farm husband today is so much greater than the woman's that the latter's purchasers shrink into insignificance."

"Husbands must remember that it is an unhappy home where the woman is so laden with drudgery that she is unaware of the lack of happiness with in the four walls around her."

C. C. Circle Held Delightful Luncheon

Thirty-three members and guests of the Christian Church Circle enjoyed a delightful one o'clock luncheon at the hospitable home of Mrs. L. L. McGinnis on Wednesday, February 23rd. This luncheon celebrated the 15th anniversary of this organization, twelve of the Charter members being present. The members were pleasantly surprised on their arrival to find Mrs. W. W. Moore of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. S. B. Hitchner of Elmhurst, Ill., present, both of these ladies having been loyal workers and officers in the society during their residence in Dixon. The tables were prettily decorated in keeping with Washington's birthday. Interesting features of the afternoon's entertainment were brief talks by seven of the past presidents and greetings from the visitors.

The C. C. Circle has done faithful and efficient work in connection with the church through the past years and enjoys a loyal and active membership.

THE RIGHT TO DISAPPEAR.

Search for Mrs. Aimee McPherson of Los Angeles upon occasion of her disappearance was carried on by expenditure of great effort and some money. She disappeared at the beach and that fact demanded that the theory of drowning first be considered and the water explored. The search continued for days. When she had reappeared, and county officials advanced the theory that the disappearance was voluntary, the question naturally arose as to compensation for the searching and exploring. News from California thus far has not indicated that there was any means of recovery.

Similarly has the question arisen in England: Is there not some way of compelling a person who disappears to pay the costs of the search?

Mrs. Agatha Christie, author, disappeared and reappeared. Naturally her disappearance resulted in a wide search at considerable expense. Her reappearance raised the question of her liability for expenses incurred in that search. Lawyers concluded that there was no recourse for those who had expended money and effort, unless it be through one person being employed by another to engage in the work. The situation is summarized by the London Mail in the following language:

"The truth is that every citizen, as far as lawyers are aware, has a perfect right to disappear when the likes, so long as he is not fleeing from the various forms of justice and lawful detention; and provided that in his flight he is not infringing the right or endangering the lives and liberties of others. Our rights are happily not limited by any rule forbidding us to hide from friends or enemies; from the curious or philanthropic pursuer, or from the embarrassment of the most well-meant hue and cry, even where it assumes the magnitude of a national pursuit."

When a person disappears and stays disappeared, searchers probably will not regret their efforts. It is when one reappears of his own accord that resentment takes the place of sorrow.

THE BUSINESS OF EMPIRE.

There is a good deal of talk in the papers these days about America's activities along the lines of "empire." A lot of people seem to think that we are destined to extend our sphere of influence over a much bigger share of the globe's surface than is now the case, and some of them are vastly excited about it, one way and another.

Well, maybe it's true. It may be that this nation is fated to become a vast world-ruling power like the Rome of Augustus or the Mongol empire of Ghengis Khan.

But here's a thought to ponder on before we start.

A state that dreams of empire usually puts its own house in order before it takes over management of its neighbors' affairs.

There are a few places in the United States that would stand a little attention. There are sore spots like Herrin; there are certain little things about our big cities, such as New York and Chicago; there are miserable conglomerations of shacks, called villages, in the coal mining regions; there are mill towns where poverty and misery cower in dark streets; there are—well, the list could be extended a good bit.

It might be well for us to devote ourselves to these problems and let our children, when they are grown, think of empire.

"He that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that liketh a city." That applies to nations as well as to individuals.

Spring, tra-la, has come, and here are its harbingers: Gold has been discovered, as usual, in northern Ontario. The chambers of commerce up there certainly are consistent. . . . Circuses are advertising for sword swallowers. We've often marveled at the dinner table variety. . . . A man 145 years old pops the question to a lady 131 in Russia. Do you suppose that's all the older she really is? . . . The Connecticut legislature decides pedestrians on the highways at night needn't have tail lights. We've been all through Connecticut and never saw a man with a tail. . . . Heigh, he! Why, it's snowing!

Pretty soon Tex Rickard will be asking the eager young contestants for their Congressional records.

Kellogg, the food man, agrees with Ford that, in this synthetic age, cows are unnecessary. We wish some of these scientists would take after the cats who become operatically inclined at nightfall.

Headlines you never see: "G. O. P. Honest Crowd After All, Says Jim Reed."

A child in Chicago begged to stay up a little later, saving her life because a building next door fell into her bedroom. All you children who don't want to go to bed and who have a building next door take notice.

Now that the movies have begun to do their own talking, perhaps those earnest souls who converse during films can find heaven for their discourse in the public libraries.

Hollywood is a place where a man who wields a hammer on a movie set is known as a "master artisan."

THE KNYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

As Clowny sailed away alone, he rather changed his cheerful tone. The others heard him shouting, "Someone rescue me from here." The bit of smoke that held him high, might "round and round up in the sky. The thought that it might fade away filled Clowny up with fear.

However, there was naught to do, and no real sense in feeling blue. He realized that he was at the mercy of the breeze. Said he, "I hope I'm saved ere night, 'cause I might blow right out of sight." And those who watched him slowly saw him shaling at the knees.

Then Clowny shouted, "I have no fear. Perhaps you'll soon blow over here. Then you can jump back here with us, upon our cloud o' smoke." And Clowny said, "You're brave enough, but you don't know this trip is rough. For once I will admit that being caught out here's no joke."

Soon Clowny saw, up in the skies, a sight that almost hurt his eyes. A great big ball of fire. It seemed he'd reach it pretty soon. He sailed along and closer drew, and in a moment more he knew that he was being laughed at by the men up in the moon.

"Hi, ho, there, lad," he heard him call. "You'd best look out or you will all. Why don't you come on over here, and take a little rest. The smoke cloud that suspends you high, I fear will soon fade out and die."

When Clowny stopped to think of this, he thought the plan was best. A point of Mister Moon Man stood right close at hand where Clowny could reach out and grab a hold of it, so Clowny held on tight. And, as he hung there in the air, he saw his smoke puff wasn't there. Thus Clowny saved himself before the smoke passed out of sight.

(The Smoke Man rescues Clowny in the next story.)

an easy chair in a far corner of the prison reception room.

"Lord, I'm tired!" Cherry sank into a chair. "Churchill's been at me for hours. He's still trying to make me remember more about that damned letter. Good heavens, I'd remember if I could, wouldn't I—when my life may depend on it?"

"Why, what can't you remember?" Faith asked, startled.

"Just how I happened to see it," Cherry told her. "I know what I never opened the damned thing. I'd have remembered that. All I remember is that I did find it one day when Mr. Cluny was out. But I think I ran across it when I was filling out letters. I don't remember finding it in the file basket, as I told him at first. I'm sure it was already in the filing cabinet when I went to work for Mr. Cluny."

"But doesn't the rubber stamp date tell when it was received?" Faith asked. "I thought that was all settled."

"The trouble is, the rubber stamp was not set to show the year it was received. The letter may have been there a year or two, for all I know. The stamp on it just says September 14, with the numbers 192, then a blank. Whoever used the stamp that day didn't fix it to record the year. Probably an accident. Lola Gonzales worked for him before I did, but Churchill says he can't get a thing out of Lola. She's Banning's witness."

"A witness for the prosecution?" Faith demanded, her teeth chattering through her veins. "What in the world does she know about the case?"

"I suppose she'll testify against my client," Cherry yawned again. "Thank heaven, Bob made Alexander Cluny tear up that awful report that that spying brother of Lola's—Pete Gonzales, you know—made against me to Alex. That would be a pretty thing to spring on me when I'm fighting for my life."

BUT STERLING
WIN TOMORROW

Sterling Gazette Insists Dixon Will be Defeated

The sports editor of the Sterling Gazette can see nothing but a victory for Sterling in tomorrow evening's game between the Dixon and Sterling high school basketball teams to be played in that city. Here is what he writes of the battle:

Everything is set for the biggest game of the Rock River conference this season. It will be the battle between Sterling and Dixon on the Sterling floor. Dixon has been running through the entire season with a chip on its shoulder. Four times Dixon has won a meager margin, losing in the single point victims, losing in the "little gym" at Dixon in a game in which the locals were way off form. It will be Dixon's last conference game and if Dixon is to be trimmed this season it will be up to the Sterling boys to do it. Sterling is capable of doing it and there is every reason to believe that they will do it. Standing room only will be at a premium for this game as the tickets are selling fast and those who expect to attend should make their reservations at once.

Two Absentees When Cubs Leave for West

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Twenty three players leaving Chicago today headed the annual trek of the Chicago Cubs to their third Catalina Island training camp with a handful of tickets reserved for men to be picked up at Kansas City and Los Angeles. Among the players expected at Kansas City was Percy Jones, although President Weck had no definite assurance that the regular pitcher, denied a salary raise request, would join the troupe there. Another absentee when noses were counted was Edwood English, 19 year old shortstop purchased from the Toledo Association Club. He was reported to have delayed his reporting in an effort to obtain part of the price paid for him by the Cubs.

He Wants $5,000
Newark, Ohio, Feb. 24—(AP)—Edwood English, Chicago Cubs prize $50,000 shortstop purchased from the Toledo American Association team has announced that his home here he will not join Manager McCarthy's outfit until he is granted $5,000 of the sale price from the Toledo club. He is satisfied with the $4,000 salary offer of the Cubs, he declared.

Plans to Take Soccer Players on Sea Trip

New York, Feb. 24—(AP)—Dr. Peter J. Peel of Chicago, founder of the national soccer football association, will leave New York February 18 on a cruise through the West Indies during which he hopes to arrange for matches between mid-west amateurs and soccer organizations in Bermuda, Barbados, Kingston, Havana and Nassau in 1928.

Dr. Peel plans to gather a team of 22 players from the ranks of the western league which takes in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Dempsey Must Meet Elimination Winner

New York, Feb. 24—(AP)—An ultimatum by Tex Rickard to Jack Dempsey settles the status of the former heavyweight champion in the promoter's matchmaking plans. Dempsey must defeat the winner of the elimination tournament now being staged at Madison Square Garden in order to gain a return match with Gene Tunney. Otherwise Dempsey will be retired from consideration as a challenger.

"Dempsey will not meet Tunney unless he proves he is the best man among the contenders for the heavyweight title," the promoter said in answer to reports that Jack would meet the champion or no one. "By that I mean he must meet the winner of the elimination contest."

"Battling" Nelson Has Been Charged in Theft

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Oscar "Battling" Nelson, former lightweight boxing champion, barricaded himself in his home last night and for some time defied ten policemen seeking to arrest him on a Montana warrant charging theft of the movie film of the famous Nelson-Wolgate fight seventeen years ago. After a parley the former pugilist submitted to service on the papers which were sworn in Silver Bow, Mont.

Wisconsin Making Plans for Annual Relay Games

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24—(AP)—The University of Wisconsin athletic department today announced its preliminary plans for the fourth annual mid-west relays on April 30 at Camp Randall.

This meet is one of the few exclusive high school relay meets in the country. Last year it drew 325 athletes from 36 high schools. The states of Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin were represented.

Borotra Thinks Tilden Has Chance to Repeat

New York, Feb. 24—(AP)—William T. Tilden has an excellent chance of regaining the American singles championship he lost last season to Jean Borotra, LaCoste's Davis Cup teammate.

Commenting in "Tennis at Golf," French publication, on the Tri-Color team's outlook next summer, Borotra views the Davis cup situation as not having been "modified by the fact that Vincent Richards has passed into the professional ranks."

Taylor and Shea to Battle this Evening

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Ed Taylor of Terre Haute, recognized in Illinois and 17 other states as world's bantamweight champion, meets Eddie Shea of Chicago here tonight in the first bout between the two scrappers who have bobbed along together for years in the bantamweight swim.

They are matched in the ten round windup at 123 pounds and with the title not at stake.

In a second feature Dave Shade, New York middleweight will meet Walcott Langford, clever Chicago negro.

Triple Tie Again in "Big Ten" Race

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—The leadership in the Big Ten basketball race was involved in a triple tie again today, Purdue having pushed to the top to join Wisconsin and Michigan.

The bollermakers dropped into second place by being idle during the previous night's battling but last night climbed into the tie by defeating Northwestern.

No other conference games were played, leaving Indiana and Illinois tied below the leaders, Iowa next and just ahead of Ohio State, in turn followed by Chicago, Minnesota and Northwestern.

FARMERS' FUTURE ERA OF PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

Such is Prediction of
President of Illinois
Farm Institute

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Ignorance of the past is behind American farmers and they may now look forward to an era of prosperity, progress and enlightenment, L. C. Brown, president of the Illinois Farmers' Institute, declared in his annual address here last night.

"A clearer conception and a deeper understanding of the entire agricultural problem has been arrived at during the last year, Mr. Brown said. There has been less of the callous disregard for the welfare of the farmers, and a wider latitude has been granted them in working out their plans and policies."

"I have heard speakers declare," said Mr. Brown, "that agriculture was doomed; that agriculture was decadent. I want to challenge all such statements. I refuse to believe that this is the twilight of agriculture, that agriculture is about to sink into oblivion. Our fighting faith in agriculture prevails."

Development Program
The immediate need of agriculture, President Brown said, embraces political, economic and social activities. He outlined a program of development as follows:

An able, constructive National Board of Agriculture to direct a policy in all matters, including transportation, marketing, and taxation.
Greater assistance from the U. S. Department of Agriculture in developing home markets and finding new uses for farm products.
Greater assistance from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in opening lanes to international markets.

Expansion of the national legislative program, making it so comprehensive as to meet any emergency that may arise.
Revision of taxation laws. "Farmers are now paying 64 per cent of the net profits of agriculture for taxes," he declared.

Immediate development of the Lakes to the Gulf and the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterways.
Expansion of the cooperative movement until a great national and international commerce is established.

Mr. Brown emphatically denied that industry is drawing young men and women away from agriculture. "I don't object," he said "to any young man or woman who desires city life. We have over 600,000 potential leaders, boys and girls, and I am not nearly as much concerned about loss of our leaders as I was a few years ago."

Dangerous Attitude
"The danger, if any, is in this gloomy attitude—this belief that boys and girls are leaving the farm—filtering through and leaving an impress upon farmers themselves. This is a phase which will give us concern unless our fighting faith prevails. We must preserve the spirit of the country, its schools, its churches, its traditions. They are well worth preserving."

"The dominant desire today is to build a better social and economic order for country civilization. Men and women, the stand-bys of agriculture, are working for this common good. They have soberly and sanely analyzed changing social and economic conditions and have applied the common-sense formula to their farm and home problems. And the very foundation of their noteworthy service, the philosophy of agriculture, is efficiency and loyalty."

"We must cure the defects in our economic and social life. Let us make country life rich, beautiful and satisfying. We must not forget that country life and civilization are built upon production. When we stop production we stop building homes, schools and churches. Let us go forward and build a new agriculture based upon progress and achievement."

FORD COUPE STRIPPED

A Ford coupe belonging to Cornelius Gonneman, who resides south of Ashton, was stripped of many parts probably at an early hour this morning, according to a report made at the sheriff's office here early today. The owner of the car had left his machine standing on the Crombey lane west of Franklin Grove when it ceased to operate at an early hour this morning on his way home and which he returned, the car had been stripped of several parts. Deputy Sheriff Richardson went to Franklin Grove this morning to make an investigation.

OGLE HERD BEST PRODUCERS; JAN. REPORT ISSUED

J. Hemingway's Eight
Holsteins Topped Entire State

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Illinois' best dairy cow last month was a purebred Holstein belonging to J. R. Logan & Son, Seward, Stephenson County, it is shown in the monthly summary of the State's 31 dairy herd improvement associations issued today by C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, who has charge of these associations.

The records show that the Stephenson County cow led the field of 14,000 that are being tested for milk and butterfat production in the 31 associations by hanging up a record of 118.4 pounds of butterfat and just 239 pounds less than two tons of milk.

Oregon Herd High
Herd honors for the month were captured by J. Hemingway, Oregon, Ogle County, with eight purebred Holsteins that produced an average of 1,401 pounds of milk and 51.1 pounds of fat each.

Twelve different counties furnished the ten highest producing cows and the ten best herds for the month, according to the summary. Stephenson County was the only county to be represented among both the best cows and the best herds, that county handling four of the ten best cows and two of the ten high herds.

Jo Daviess and Kane counties each had two of the ten best cows, while Cook and McHenry counties were each represented with one. Monticello county placed two of the ten high herds of the month, while Ogle, Will, Whiteside, Peoria, DuPage and Lee counties each claimed a share of the honors for the month by placing one of the ten high herds.

Ten Best Cows
Owners of the best ten cows for the month, together with the butterfat production of the cows, were: J. R. Logan & Son, Seward, 118.4 pounds of butterfat; W. T. Rawleigh, Freeport, 113.1 pounds; Buffalo Creek Farm, Arlington Heights, 102.1 pounds; Harry Plack, Stockton, 98.2 pounds; W. T. Rawleigh, 96 pounds; Silver Glen Farm, Elgin, 93.4 pounds; Harry Plack, 89.3 pounds; Nelson

Nelson Brothers, Woodstock, 88 pounds; W. T. Rawleigh, 87.6 pounds; and Fitchome Farm, Wasco, 86.8.
Owners of the ten best herds for the month, together with the average butterfat production of each cow in those herds were: J. Hemingway, Oregon, 51.1 pounds; Zurbirigen & Myers, Solata Mills, 47.5 pounds; Hirsch Brothers & Son, Mokena, 42.8 pounds; Clyde O. Patterson, 41.7 pounds; Wayne Crawford, Lyndon, 41.4 pounds; Albert Hayes, Chillicothe, 41 pounds; Ralph C. Emel, Sullivan, 40.5 pounds; J. R. TRANSPORTATION BY WATER AS AID TO FARMER TOLD

Freight Expert Tells Illinois Farmers of New Scheme

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—A simple system whereby rivers with channels nine feet deep or even less may be successfully used for freight transportation was explained by Carl J. Boer, water freight expert of St. Louis, at the Illinois Farmers Institute meeting here.

Mr. Boer's system consisted essentially of earload barges, towed by small steam tractors, towboats. These small barges, said Mr. Boer, each carry an approximate earload of freight, or fifty tons, at a carload cost much less than that now prevailing. What is needed in connection with the government's proposed waterway improvement program, Mr. Boer declared, is the development of inland water ports. In this section, he said, Joliet, LaSalle, Peoria, Alton, St. Louis, Rock Island, Davenport, Moline, Burlington and other river cities should rightfully be substantial manufacturing centers, enabling manufacturers to ship products at a minimum cost.

"Inland waterway transportation," he said, "will not only develop great manufacturing communities in the Mississippi Valley but will make railroad earnings greater. We find here the manufacturer is practically prohibited from shipping to the western coast in competition with the seaboard manufacturer as it is cheaper to ship via rail from Chicago to New York and then via steam ship through the Panama Canal to Pacific coast points than to ship by rail from Chicago to the Pacific coast. By the Panama Canal Act, railroads are unable to reduce their rates from the valley to the Pacific coast, and the only solution for this industrial problem is to give manufacturers cheaper water transportation.

"The truck and the highway have developed in the past twelve years in such proportions as to become important factors in the transportation problem. We must recognize the truck as a primary instrument for stored-door delivery, and in considering any waterway equipment for river use, we should plan to use such equipment as could carry out these basic fundamental principles:

"A water transportation system which fits the need of the shippers; a system which can operate not only on the deep waterways but the major portion of the shallow feeder rivers and canals; and river equipment should fit into the scheme of transportation, with rail and truck."

"The contemplated improvement of the Illinois river, of the locks and dams between Uta and Joliet, may be completed within five years; but there is no reason why Illinois should not enjoy immediately the advantages of water transportation by use of the old canal under the small barge system."

PREDICTS GREAT GROWTH OF CO-OP MOVEMENT IN U. S.

3,000,000 Members in Few Years, Vision of Govt. Man

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Growth of the cooperative marketing movement to eventually include 3,000,000 farmer doing a $2,500,000,000 yearly business was predicted here today by C. G. Randall of the United States department of agriculture, speaking at the annual meeting of the Illinois Farmers Institute.

The movement is bound to take on greater proportions, he declared, because it is the logical manner for the producer to market his crops.

Mr. Randall of the division of cooperative marketing, pointed out that the cooperative movement has no national organization, but is a form of business organization especially well adapted to the needs of farmers. Its advantage over other types of business agencies is that it is set up and controlled by the producer.

"The cooperative movement has been condemned in many quarters," said Mr. Randall, "but cooperation never fails, in my opinion. The same things that cause failures in other businesses cause failures in cooperative organizations—lack of sufficient volume of business, inadequate services, expanding business without adequate capital, inefficient personnel."

12,500 Organization.

There are now more than 12,500 farmers' cooperative organizations in the country, said Randall, handling one fifth of the products of American farms. Eighty-six per cent not only market their own members' products, but those of non-members as well.

Randall said that 0.3 per cent of all cooperative organizations failed in 1925, as compared to 1.9 per cent in 1923.

The object of the division of cooperative marketing established by the Cooperative Marketing Act, Randall said, are to assist in the development of sound and progressive co-operation; to promote efficient operating practices by the various associations; and to disseminate information regarding the principles, practices, and possibilities of the movement designed to be of service to cooperative associations and agricultural producers.

"All this means," he said, "that our work is to assist the farmers in directing their organized effort to the best advantage, that they may utilize to the fullest extent their potential power to progress. For the potential power of the American farmer is like a mountain waterfall—valuable if put to use and useless without being harnessed."

Rheumatism is a Weather Prophet

More Prevalent Than for Many Years—Sudden Changes of Temperature an Immediate Cause.

When rheumatism fastens on an individual, he generally knows what the trouble is. The inflammation, soreness, pain, swelling joints and back ache, with loss of appetite, plainly indicate rheumatism. Physicians differ as to the disease, but all agree that rheumatism is caused by poison in the system. Cold and moisture, with sudden change of temperature, cause aggravated attacks and intense suffering. The first twinge of pain or stiffness of muscles demands quick action.

Don't suffer a minute; get from Rowland's Pharmacy or any drug store a bottle of Musterole. It's a great prescription which must give you quick relief from rheumatic suffering or it will cost you nothing. Rheuma with help in driving chills and joints down. A normal, reduce the pain without the least injury to the heart. Two weeks' treatment is inexpensive and your money will be returned if you do not get the joyful relief anticipated.—Adv.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into influenza or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

There's DRIVE behind the beauty of THE COMMANDER

now $1585 f.o.b. factory

If ever a car had what American business calls DRIVE, this Big Six Brougham has it. Studebaker has never built a faster, safer automobile—more speed than you'll ever need, more real riding luxury than you've ever experienced.

You are captain of the boulevards and master of the open road when you sit at the wheel of this Big Six Brougham—commander of thrilling power that only seven American cars can equal, and they cost from two to five times more.

The Commander will idle smoothly or take the throttle for acceleration at 3 miles per hour. It will sweep from 5 to 40 miles per hour in 18.4 seconds. It will deliver 70 miles an hour carrying four passengers. It will return from 15 to 18 miles to the gallon of gasoline under normal driving conditions.

Try it yourself—take this car out today. Put it against any test you want. Then you'll know why the Studebaker Big Six outsells every other car of equal or greater rated horsepower.

At its new low price of $1585—this Custom Brougham is the latest triumph of Studebaker's One-Price manufacture. Never before has a Big Six four-door enclosed car given so much and asked for so little!
